

Markinch Burials

Markinch Burials 1799-1854

The burial register contains details of those interred between the years of 1799-1854 in Markinch Churchyard and the list below was compiled by members of Fife Family History Society [FFHS] and re-formatted into the current version by a member of Markinch Parish Church. FFHS has been informed of the omissions.

In the early part of the 19th century many surnames were not spelled as they are today and the registrar appears to have recorded many names exactly as they were pronounced to him. There are inconsistencies in the spelling of names within the same entry – examples of this are to be found particularly under the surnames Hutcheson and Hutchison where the 'e' and 'i' are regularly transposed, although there are several other examples throughout the text.

The burial register for Markinch Churchyard is to be found in OPR 447, Books 4 and 7. The burials have been recorded chronologically, and each burial has been given a sequential yearly number, beginning at No 1 for the first burial of the year. A curious entry (No 70 for 1847) reads: "Alexr Fliming at Star had a leg interred 20th July; it lies 4 yards west from the above 69th interment."

Thomas Spittal was the Registrar in Markinch during the greater part of this period and recorded the entries. There is some damage to the latter half of the register. The last page records the number of burials per year, but of the 73 Interments for 1845, only 29 has survived to April 1845, and of the 73 for 1849, only 41 have survived to July 1849. A new register begins in 1850.

The register also records the burials in the new (Northhall) cemetery. The first interment there was No 41 for 1854 - William, son of David Johnston, farmer at Bighty. The Old Church-yard was shut on 11 Feb 1856 and the last interment was No 8 of 1856, Robert, son of William Stenhouse at Plaisterers, who was buried 3 Feb 1856.

Typescripts of the Churchyard burials from 1853-1856 and the Northall Cemetery burials from 1854 are to be found in the Cemeteries Department at Unicorn House, Glenrothes.

Note: Some surnames starting with the letters 'S', 'T' and 'W' are missing from the record.
